Being Water Smart IS Cool

Being water smart is cool because it helps save our fresh water supply so all living things can have a better life.

Another reason being water smart is cool because I want to wake up in the morning and know that everyone in the world has fresh water available for them to drink.

Being water smart is also cool because I want to help keep the earth beautiful and green and I want all animals to have access to fresh water. If I become really water smart I might have the ability to help give fresh water to the people who have to walk every day just to get water. Being water smart by helping others would be very cool. Being water smart is cool because I can help save our water supply simply by taking shorter showers and turning off the water when brushing my teeth.

Having water is the most important thing on our planet, without water no living things can survive. So simply put being water smart is cool because we want to sustain all life on earth.
